A remarkable experiential course for those who wish to explore new options. Through integrating insights and experiences from the course, participants are provided with understanding tools to enable them to respond more directly in their lives. It is widely reported by former participants that the impact of the course has transformed their way of thinking at a deep level and removed blocks to progress in many profound ways. Transitions is a self-development course and also the pre-requisite to our training. The cost is £375 and it is a four day course that takes place over five days from Thursday evening to Monday mid-afternoon and includes: seven experiential seminars; two small process groups (allowing for individual consultation; discussion and grounding of course material); and an opportunity to meet with a senior trainer to discuss further options.

Professional Training

The taster evenings will give you the chance to find out more about our training in counselling and psychotherapy, as well as our professional development courses. Re-Vision is a registered educational charity and non-profit limited company. However, because of our commitment to working with small groups and the high standards that we maintain throughout our training, we recognise that the level of fees may create a barrier to entry for some people. Because of this we have set up a Training Bursary Fund specifically targeted at those from ethnic minority backgrounds and less advantaged groups to help with the cost of the professional training. See our web site <http://www.re-vision.org.uk/training-introduction/> for more information.
